

Confidence Compass

— Building Confidence: From Self-Doubt to First Move

A working note to yourself — not collected, not shown to anyone unless you choose to.

Today's date _____

01
FIND YOUR VALUE

02
SHARPEN YOUR MESSAGE

03
MAKE YOUR MOVE

04
HOLD YOUR GROUND

Find Your Value

Write down one strength you have — and one specific moment it showed up. At work, in study, or in life.

MY STRENGTH:

WHERE IT SHOWED UP:

Stuck? Try one of these:

What do people regularly ask for your help with?

What's one thing you do particularly well?

What specific example shows it?

Sharpen Your Message

Now narrow what you just wrote into one sentence — the one thing you most want remembered.

MY ONE SENTENCE:

Make Your Move

Who:

Why you're reaching out to them, specifically (not a generic reason — something true about them):

The smallest useful ask you could make — something clear, specific, and easy to respond to:

Now write two lines you could actually send: one reason, one small ask.

Send this now, if you're ready.

Or commit to doing it within the next seven days.

7 Seven days from today, this is the move I intend to make:

Hold Your Ground

Bring to mind a setback or a “no” you've experienced. You don't need to write anything about it.

Just write down what is still true about your skill, capability, or effort regardless of that outcome.

WHAT IS STILL TRUE ABOUT ME: